

A Canny North East Guide to Science

You can go green In...

If you love gathering evidence, carrying out research and coming up with new ideas to solve problems, this could be for you. Working within science will help to protect our native plants and animals, find new ways of growing our food and defend our local communities from the effects of climate change.

Skills

- Good with numbers
- Problem solving
- Critical thinking
- Practical working

Interests

- Maths
- Nature and wildlife
- Research
- Innovation

Visit our guide to Green Careers to find out more